Dar As-Sikkah — State Printing Works

Location: Rabat, Morocco · Established: 1987 · Role: Sole domestic printer of Moroccan banknotes and coins

Morocco is fully self-sufficient in banknote printing via Dar As-Sikkah. DLR opportunity is in substrate, security features, ink, and equipment rather than finished banknotes.

DLR Opportunity Assessment

Opportunities: • Substrate supply to Dar As-Sikkah (paper, security thread, foils) • Security feature technology (holograms, inks, threads) for new series • Equipment/press supply and maintenance • Consultancy on new denomination designs • Polymer/hybrid substrate proposal for future series
Challenges: • Fully self-sufficient domestic printer — no finished banknote opportunity • Dar As-Sikkah has 37+ years of operational experience • Political sensitivity around currency sovereignty • Long-standing Governor (23 years) — established supplier relationships

Banque d'Algérie (Bank of Algeria)

Recent Leadership Changes

Governor	Period	Notes
Mouatassem Boudiaf	Jan 2026 – present	Current — newly appointed
Salah Eddine Taleb	May 2022 – Jan 2026	Dismissed by President Tebboune
Rosthom Fadli	Sep 2020 – May 2022	—
Aïmene Benabderrahmane	Nov 2019 – Jul 2020	Later became Prime Minister

⚠ Key insight: Algeria has had 5 governors in 7 years — significant political instability at central bank level. New governor = new relationships to build. Timing opportunity for DLR.

DLR Opportunity Assessment

♣ HIGH PRIORITY — Opportunities:

- Volume: 45.6M population × heavy cash economy = massive banknote demand
- New governor (Jan 2026): Fresh leadership = window to establish new supplier relationships
- Active programme: Multiple new denominations 2018-2022 shows appetite for modernisation
- Security upgrades: Progression from basic → holographic → enhanced security features
- Substrate & components: Paper, security thread, holograms, ink supply
- Finished banknote supply: If domestic capacity is insufficient for demand
- Strong FX reserves ($64.6B): Algeria can afford premium products

Challenges:

- Political instability — 5 governors in 7 years
- Complex procurement processes (state-controlled)
- Franco-Algerian historical ties may favour French suppliers
- Opaque decision-making (limited public procurement data)

- Closed currency: Illegal to import or export TND — all exchange within Tunisia
- Only 4 denominations currently in circulation
- 1 TND ≈ $0.32 USD
- Paper substrate with protective varnish coat (not polymer)
- Complete series upgrade 2017-2022: All 4 denominations redesigned over 5 years
- Crane Currency is incumbent: RAPID® HD is their proprietary security thread
- De La Rue historical link: Printed 1972 series (½, 1, and 5 Dinars)
- Severe fiscal pressure: Budget deficit 6% GDP, Moody's Caa1, limited FX reserves

Previous Printers

Period	Printer	Notes
1972 Series	De La Rue	½, 1, and 5 Dinar notes (P-66, P-67, P-68)
2017-2022 Series	Crane Currency	Full series upgrade with RAPID® HD technology

DLR Opportunity Assessment

Opportunities:

- Historical relationship: De La Rue printed 1972 series — re-entry angle
- Next upgrade cycle: Current series completed 2022, next likely ~2030
- Cost-sensitivity: Tunisia's fiscal crisis may drive price-competitive procurement
- Competitive bid: If DLR can undercut Crane Currency on next tender
- Alternative security features: Offer DLR's own thread/hologram vs Crane's RAPID®
- Polymer proposal: Enhanced durability could reduce long-term costs

Challenges:

- Crane Currency is deeply embedded — RAPID® HD across all denominations
- Small market: Only 12.4M population, 4 denominations
- Fiscal risk: Payment reliability concerns given sovereign rating
- Recent upgrade: No immediate need for new series
- Political interference: Concerns over BCT independence under Saïed

- 2. Morocco second: Components/substrate play via Dar As-Sikkah. Build technical relationship.
- 3. Tunisia third: Long-game competitive positioning for next series (~2030). Leverage 1972 historical link.
